"Thine Is the Glory"

This painting, which hangs in National Headquarters of the American Red Cross, Washington, depicts the hemage of America's fighting men to American womanhood as mebilised for service in the World War by this erganisation. It is the collaborative scientific and art creation of Major Jacoph Gray Kitchell, late of the General Staff, U. S. A., and F. Luis Mora, of the New York School of Art. The face of the central figure is a compesite f the features of a thousand Red Oress workers selected for the purpose.

MAUD MULLER

Maud Muller on a Summer's day, Raked the meadow sweet with hay; She was industrious, I must say! However sweet, she wasn't neat, A torn hat doesn't look that way!

Oh well, albeit, she did get by, It seems she caught the Judge's eye; They say the lady didn't try-She might have caught the Judge, oh fudge!

Such blindness makes me sigh!

They say the Judge, in after years, Regretted very much, That by a little carelessness, He'd got himself in Dutch, Instead of simple beauty And charming rustic health, He married a stunning lady Of influence and wealth; And though he gave her diamonds And other things galore, She never was quite satisfied-Demanded more and more; And when the Judge found time to breathe;

He'd slip off all alone, And wonder what became of Maud And then he'd softly moan, "Had I only had the forethought; To look beyond my nose, I'd taken the wild, field daisy And left the hothouse rose! She'd been glad to cook for me And mend my pants and coat; I might have taken it easy, And let her be the goat!"
